A large

Los Angeles Daily Times--Supplement.

LOS ANGELES, WEDNESDAY MORNING JUNE 30, 1886.

PASADENA.

Bangoromay Hill--An Accident, and eight horses.

Correspondence of the Times.

PASADENA, June 29.—Dr. J. C. Kerr, who has been a long sufferer from pulmonary tuberculosis, although most of the time for two years past able to attend his practice, is now very low, having had severe hemorrhages Sunday morning, Monday morning and last night. But little hope is entertained for his recovery. His brother and friends have been notified of his condition.

Charles Rose, a young man employed at Ripley & Co.'s planing mill, was this morning struck on the hip by an unruly board as it was being passed through the machinery, receiving severe bruises which will disable him for some days.

A fire yesterday morning broke out in Wallace's fruit-drying house, in the northern part of the city—which, however, was soon got under control—resulting in about $500 damage.

Carpenters' Union.

About a hundred carpenters and joiners of Pasadena and vicinity assembled at Williams' Hall, Saturday night, to consider the matter of organizing a carpenters' union. A delegation of nine from the Carpenters' Union, No. 56, of Los Angeles, were present. District Organizer Arthur Vinnett and others of the delegation explained the working and objects of the "union," after which twenty-four carpenters signed the roll as charter members to organize a Pasadena Union and the meeting adjourned for one week. The National Convention of the brotherhood meets at Buffalo, N. Y., on the 2d of August, and B. Nelligan, President of Union No. 56, has been selected to represent the Los Angeles brotherhood at the convention.

THE CITY FATHERS AT WORK.

The City Board of Trustees met Monday afternoon and passed some essential ordinances to complete organization, among which was one adopting a design for a seal, it being a "crown, with a key resting in it, which is a combination of the two interpretations, grain to the word "Pasadena." The crown of the valley and the key of the valley. The Ward Bros. have already applied the design on their letter heads, etc. Ordinances were also passed fixing the bonds of the City Clerk, City Treasurer, and City Marshal; also an ordinance imposing a street poll tax of $2 on each male inhabitant between 21 and 60 years of age, and providing for its collection. A few other essential ordinances were passed. An adjourned meeting of the Board is to be held Thursday evening, for the transaction of other important business.

The Princess of Wales.

Fashion Journal.

The Princess of Wales is really the most beautiful woman I have seen of late years. There used to be as handsome women formerly, but I have not seen one so handsome for twenty years. She has not a wrinkle nor a sign of age. Her complexion is brilliant, her eyes dazzling, her lips red, her teeth perfect, her features commanding; her expression that mysterious thing we call beauty, she smiles enchanting. She was dressed in lilac, and it becomes her magnificently. That such a woman can be the mother of a grown-up son is preposterous. Her daughters are very plain. How the Princess of Wales can see beauty in any one but his own wife seems impossible. The Princess Christina, whom I have met at the house of a friend, and who is a most unaffected, agreeable, cordial woman, with much bonhomie, stood next to the Princess of Wales. She encouraged me in my progress past royalty with a cordial smile and look of recognition. She was in black and scarlet, and looked well.

They Take the Cake.

New York Mail and Express.

The cool impudence of the British owners of Confederate bonds might be supposed to take the cake when they ask the United States to pay the expenses of the attempt to destroy the Union. Suppose that the conqueror should be requested to pay the powder bill of the conquered in any war in which England was the conqueror, how Cousin Bull would laugh. And that is the situation for British bondholders since her Majesty's government recognized the belligerency of the Confederate States.

A New Savannah.

Pisa boasts a new Savannah. A correspondent says of the poor Franciscan monk: "During his course at Pisa public life was, as it were, suspended. Work ceased on feast days; lawyers, men of business and workmen left their occupations to go and hear him. Lectures, even those of free-thinking professors, were not given, in order to allow the students to assist at the sermons. And these thousands of hearers, composed of all classes of society, hanging on his lips, shed involuntary tears, and besides themselves with admiration, broke out, notwithstanding the sanctity of the church, into cries of applause."

Prophetic Lying.

Chicago News.

"Did you ever sit down and reflect on the progress that has been made in this country during the age of a man?" It was the renowned General Prentiss, returning from Ohio, where he had delivered a Decoration day address, who asked the question. He then went on to say:

"It was some time in the '50s that I attended a jollification meeting at Jefferson City, Mo. The meeting was for the purpose of celebrating the completion of a railroad, and, of course, wine bottles had to be cracked and speeches made. If the speeches had been first and the bottles cracked afterwards, I would probably not have been called upon to speak, but as it was the gentleman who was to speak for the city of Quincy was too full of wine to have any wit, and I was requested to speak in his stead. I saw that the company was too far gone to listen to much seriousness, so I began a series of the most extravagant prophecies."

"Gentlemen," said I, "there are those present who will live to see 50,000 inhabitants flourishing on the banks of the great Missouri."

"Make it 100,000 while you're about it," cried one man.

"Yes," said another, "you might as well be killed for a sheep as a lamb."

"The child has already been born," I continued, "who will step into a place on wheels on Monday morning in New York and go to bed the next Saturday night in San Francisco."

"That's a pretty stiff yarn, I thank you," yelled a man at the other end of the table, and he proposed to drink the health of the man who could tell so big a story without cracking a smile. The health was drunk and I went on.

"The day is coming when some one will stand in Jefferson City and talk into the very ear of his friend in Liverpool."

"My God," said a half tipsy man at my right, "what a liar you'd make if you'd turn your attention to it!"

"Yes," I said, without noticing him, "and the boy now lives in Missouri who will one day get up from his dinner table and say: 'Dad, where are my wings? I want to jump up to Ceylon this afternoon. I'll be back for supper.'

"At this a perfect howl went up; the dishes were swept from the table and I was voted the most asthetic yanner in the land."

"But now," continued the general, "isn't it strange, that, although I recited the most extravagant prophecies I could imagine, all excepting that relating to the wings, have practically come true already, and I am not prepared to say that gray as I am, I shall not live to see men fanning the air with wings and chasing birds in their loftiest flights?"

The Question.

It is now the season of the year when the young college graduate, having delivered his class-day oration on "Privileges of American Citizenship," sits down to ponder whether he will be President of the United States, an editor of a daily newspaper, or a western cowboy.

Eager to Join.

In speaking of the junior class in the University this year, the professor said: "The junior class will embrace seventeen young ladies." "It will!" exclaimed the young man addressed; "great Scott! then I shall join the junior class."

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC.

D. D. Lloyd, the author of Baymond's new play, For Congress, was for years the Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune.

David Belasco is at work on an original play called My Betty, for production at New York next season.

M. H. De Young and Mose Gunst are reported to be among the stockholders of the long-promised Eden Musee.

The Lyceum Theater, New York, will have an additional gallery next season. This will make the seating capacity of the theater larger than that of the Madison Square Theater.

A cynic, who has been taking in Sophia Eyre in her riding-costume in the Marble Heart, entertains the opinion that she is a greater success in pants than in skirts. It is not to be inferred, however, that Miss Eyre's proclivities are masculine.

Annie Lockhart, of the California Company, is a young actress of great promise. She is a daughter of the well-known Mrs. Lockhart, who died in Salt Lake City some years ago, and is also the niece of John Coleman, the English actor and literateur.

SMILES.

"What did your father leave you when he died, Pat?" "Faith, he left me an orphan."—Tid-Bits.

Brother Jonathan—"I can't understand what you say. What have you got in your mouth?" Canuck—"We're to bat!"—[Chicago News.]

President—"Dan, has this passed the Senate?" Lamont—"No, your Excellency, that is a milliner's bill, and if you will take the advice of a man of experience you will not affix a veto."—[Chicago Inter Ocean.]

Little Willie played long and ineffectually for a little brother. At last he gave it up as "no use." Soon after his mother had the pleasure of showing him two babies. He looked at them a moment and then exclaimed: "How lucky it was I stopped praying! There might have been three."—[Babyhood.]

To be the Second City.

San Bernardino Times.] Los Angeles is fast approaching the position of second city in California in size and population, and will probably within a year be justly entitled to that claim. At present Oakland ranks her a few thousand, but the phenomenal growth of Los Angeles, if it continues a short time longer, as it undoubtedly will, will overcome the difference. From a town of about 5728 in 1870, it increased to 11,183 in 1880, and from that it has advanced to over 40,000 in 1886; and it gives promise of still increasing as rapidly for some time to come. Los Angeles is the metropolis of Southern California, and always will be, and it will not be long before she is the second city in the State in size and population, as she is now in importance.

Fomona Progress.]

We believe that the Times, which can usually be depended upon when it comes to a matter of square level-headed judgment and old-fashioned, reliable common sense, has stated the question exactly upon its merits. And it might be well to add that with the increase of the wealth and population of Los Angeles, will all the contiguous, as well as the more remote towns and villages grow and prosper.

San Bernardino will continue to be the center of an increasing active trade; so of all surrounding towns. It seems as if the spot of the magician was thrown over and around all of Southern California, causing it to mount upward with lightning speed toward that proud position of one of the most wealthy and progressive sections of the Union. Yes, all the towns and young cities tributary to Los Angeles feel the thrill of prosperity and enterprise that animates the metropolis.

The Staff Those Editors Print.

Terra Haute (Ind.) Express.] I think these details of the White House wedding are perfectly disgusting," remarked a North End matronly lady.

"They are shameful," replied her husband. "I skimmed through some of the stuff yesterday. The newspapers are disgracing themselves."

There was a silence for a moment, and then both jumped to their feet and started for the door. Their quick ears had heard the daily paper drop on the front porch where it was thrown by the carrier.

"What's the matter?"

"What's the matter with you?"

They reached the door together, and crowded through it in double file. He got the paper, and hurried back into the house.

"I thought you didn't read that horrid stuff," said she, stifling her disappointment as best she could.

"I don't; I said I skimmed over it only."

"But you know it all, because you and Mr. Jones sat there last evening and cracked jokes about the death."

"Oh, nonsense," he retorted impatiently. "Don't talk foolish. I've only a minute to stay, and you can have the paper all day; I only want to look over the Council proceedings."

"Council proceedings, indeed!"

He was too deep in the Washington dispatches to pay further heed, and after a minute's torturing silence she moved her chair next to his, and looked over his shoulder. For an hour neither spoke except to ask if the other was at the bottom of the column, that the folded paper might be turned. When the several columns had been read he threw the paper down, started for the door, and with much affectation of indignation said: "These editors who are publishing this stuff must have a poor opinion of their readers." As he passed out he heard his wife say laughingly "I guess they know you."

Howard Perverseness. Philadelphia Call.]

It is a marked indication of the inward perverseness of a man's nature that he invariably feels aggrieved when he buys an accident insurance policy, and then travels 5000 miles without so much as a stone-bruise.

The Mirror Sewing Machine.

$18 for a $65 First-Class
FAMILY SEWING MACHINE*$22 for a $75 High-Arm Sewing Machine and the Weekly Mirror.

THE MIRROR PERFECT AND IMPROVED HIGH-ARM SEWING MACHINE.

For $22 this machine and WEEKLY MIRROR, postage paid, for one year.This machine is the first of its kind ever offered the public at factory prices, and cannot be bought from agents for less than the regular selling price, $75. It is the high-arm pattern, which prevents self-setting needles; cannot be run backward, thus avoiding all dangers of breaking thread belt, which prevents it from being run backward, thus avoiding all dangers of breaking thread belt.*The MIRROR guarantees that it does all work that any sewing machine does, and does it better.*The MIRROR gets a full line of attachments free from the regular retail price of them being $15. This year we will have a high arm machine for the first time, and will be able to offer the machine in every particular. That if you ever had a Singer machine you will know all about running this one, as it is simply a Singer machine, lock-stitch, tension and all, with some improvements on the Singer.*This is less than one-half the price similar machines are selling for throughout the country, and is a great saving to the subscriber.*Each machine is sold with the manufacturer's guarantee to give satisfaction or money refunded.*HOW TO ORDER.*When you remit us the $22 for the machine and WEEKLY MIRROR, postage paid, for one year, write plainly the point the machine is to be shipped to, as well as the Postoffice the paper is to be sent to.*The machine should be ordered to the nearest railroad station, the county and State should be mentioned. When $22 are sent for the WEEKLY MIRROR one year and the machine, the freight charges from the factory are to be paid by the subscriber, in addition to that amount.*We would advise subscribers to order the machine sent by freight, as the freight charges are about one-third to one-fourth of express charges; and, while the time taken in the carrying of the machine is a little longer, it is just as securely and safely as by express.*The machine will be shipped direct from the manufacturer (Chicago), all set up ready for use.*Money must accompany order.
